

TROOPS COMPLAIN OF THEIR RATINGS

Voice of Soldiers in Southern Islands

SAY THEY ARE NOT SUITED TO THE CLIMATE.

During the six months the Californians were at Negros, the Regiment Went Without Meat Except For An Occasional Supply of an Inferior Nature—Plenty of Refrigerated At Manila Harbor, It Is Alleged, But Gen. Otis Refused to Send It—Another Typhoon Said to Be Raging.

Manila, via Hong Kong, Aug. 3.—[Special]—The troops in southern islands are complaining of ratings, which they claim are not suited to the climate and do not include fresh meat.

During the six months the Californians were at Negros, the regiment was without fresh meat, except for an occasional supply of inferior native beef.

There was plenty of refrigerated meat in Manila harbor, but Gen. Otis refused to send any of it to Negros.

Another Typhoon Raging.

Washington, Aug. 3.—[Special]—Gen. Otis cabled the war department this morning that another typhoon is raging, which will delay the departure of the transports Zealandia and Valencia.

WILL SOON COMPLETE RECRUITING

Gen. Corbin Says All Regiments Will Be Filled in Nine Days.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Gen. Corbin estimates that in nine days the work of recruiting for the ten volunteer regiments will be completed.

The First California, en route home from Manila, should arrive at San Francisco Aug. 23; the First Colorado, Aug. 14; the First Idaho, Aug. 28; the First North Dakota, Aug. 23; the Wyoming battery, Aug. 28; and the two batteries of California artillery, Aug. 23. Nine regiments yet remain at Manila to be transported home. These regiments constitute a force of 7,437 men, less than half the entire volunteer force which was on duty in the Philippines.

The transports Grant, Sheridan, Sherman, Zealandia and Valencia are now at Manila, and between them can carry 6,703 men. The remaining 734 men can be brought home on the Pennsylvania, which arrived at Manila Tuesday. This vessel will be ready to return in about ten days. It is said at the war department that the entire volunteer force in the Philippines will have reached the United States by Sept. 15.

More Men Needed.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 3.—A large number of men and many officers were interviewed on board the transport Senator and bore out the statements of the Oregon and Nebraska men in reference to the need of at least 75,000 or 100,000 men to end the war in Luzon. They all without exception said Gen. Otis was not a big enough man to handle the situation as it was. Officers were reticent in talking of the situation, and none of them would talk at all except on promise that their names would not be published.

Alliance Against England.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The Courier Du Soir, which is directly inspired by the foreign office, says that the visit of M. Delcasse to St. Petersburg is due to the czar's projected visit to the Paris exhibition, and "perhaps also a possible understanding of continental Europe against pretensions dangerous to the peace of the world." The latter is understood to refer to Great Britain's attitude in the Transvaal.

Cleveland Strike Still On.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 3.—Gov. Asa S. Bushnell will arrive here Saturday for the purpose of personally investigating the strike situation. He will make a tour of the city and review the troops here.

The severity of the boycott has not diminished; it is rather on the increase, only the Euclid avenue cars being nationalized.

WICKED RUNAWAY OCCURRED

Happened This Afternoon Shortly After 2 O'clock

A wicked runaway occurred this afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock when a team of horses hitched to a farm wagon and owned by Peter Barrett, of Leyden, dashed down Milwaukee street. Mr. Barrett had just delivered a load of corn at the Spoon warehouse on North River street, and was weighing his wagon on the scales, when the horses were frightened by a passing locomotive.

They dashed down River street and had just reached Milwaukee street when the neck yoke gave way and they tore across the bridge with the pole of the wagon swaying from side to side and menacing everything in the way of it. At the east end of the bridge the wheels struck the car track and the wagon was overturned, throwing the box onto the sidewalk and breaking the running gear into several pieces. The horses left the wagon and were caught in front of the Myers House on Main street without further damage. The runaway was a bad one and all who witnessed it marveled at the fact that no one was injured by it.

CHARLES VAN GALDER WAS NEARLY KILLED

THREE OTHER MEN INJURED DURING SHOPIERE GAME.

Unfortunate Young Man Struck Fairly in the Face With a Base Ball Bat—Frank Todd, Henry Hysel and Bert Jones Hurt—It Was Shopiere's Game.

Charles Van Galder was nearly killed in a game of ball at Shopiere Wednesday afternoon. Three other men were injured and serious consequences were feared. The game was between Shopiere and Rockton, and the grandstand was well filled. The game was close and excitement ran high. Van Galder was looking on when the batter let his club slip from his hand. It struck the young man fairly in the face and he went down as if shot. Frank Todd who stood close by was also struck and measured his length on the ground. He was quick to recover, but Van Galder lay apparently lifeless. He was taken off the ground and when he began to revive went into violent delirium. All night long he raved and it was feared his brain had been affected. Today he is better, however, and gives promise of complete recovery. Henry Hysel was struck on the leg during the same game and temporarily crippled. Bert Jones had his finger disabled. The game resulted 24 to 21 in favor of Shopiere.

Additional Shopiere News.

Shopiere, Aug. 3.—The Woodmen's picnic at B. A. Smith's woods was a pleasant affair. Everyone present enjoyed themselves. The program was exceptionally good and there was a large number present. HAIL AND ELECTRIC STORM RUINS CROPS

Oconto, Wis., Aug. 3.—A severe wind and lightning storm visited Couillardville last night and destroyed much property, and it is feared the hail has ruined the crops.

Albert Sylvester was struck by lightning and is in a precarious condition. The residence of Edward Couillard was struck and almost totally destroyed by fire. Cattle in adjoining pastures were killed.

At May's Corners the storm was accompanied by hail, which covered the ground to a depth of several inches, and was of such size that many reports of severe injury have been received today. The storm seemed to gather just north of this city and on the bay a number of waterspouts were noticed by Clair Whitney and William Smith, who were caught in an open boat and had hard work to reach this port in safety.

Victim of Assault Dies

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 3.—William Kehr, who was stabbed ten times with a hunting knife in the hands of John Miller, died yesterday morning. Miller and his partners, William Trapp, Richard Voss and William Klick, are charged with murder in the first degree and are held without bail. The examination has been adjourned until Aug. 10.

Kehr was 26 years of age and single. He was a fireman on the steamer Lion, plying between this city and Wabasha, Minn. He was born in Lansing, Ia. Kehr, at the time of the attack, was walking along Front street with Theodore Gaister. Neither knew any of the four men, and both, it is said, were attacked without cause. Miller, it is said, singled out Kehr and Gaister was then threatened, but got away.

Miller is the son of a wealthy broom manufacturer. He was a soldier in the Third Wisconsin regiment and served through the Porto Rican campaign. He brought the knife used in the affray home with him from there. The three other boys come from respectable families.

Driving her from the house, he caught her a short distance away and began beating her. This he continued for half an hour. The woman piteously appealed for aid. Neighbors aroused by the terrible outrage, rushed to interfere, but Martell held them at bay by threatening to shoot the first one who attempted to stop him. The woman's body was fearfully bruised and her clothing torn into shreds. Martell fled. The wife was carried home unconscious and there is little hope of her recovery. Officers are after Martell.

SPEAK WELL OF C. A. WILCOX

A High Compliment Paid the Former Janesville Man by Quincy Paper.

The Quincy Daily Herald, a contemporary of The Daily Whig, with which Chester A. Wilcox was formerly connected, speaks, editorially, of Mr. Wilcox as follows:

"The passing of Chester A. Wilcox is matter for general mourning in this community. He was a splendid example of the best American citizenship, and, whether in public or private life, he was without fear and without reproach. The word friendship was to him a holy one, and there was no sacrifice he would not make for any one to whom he felt the slightest tie of kin or interest. Those longest associated with him in business or in social life speak of him in almost hallowed tones. They fancied him moulded of some purer and fairer clay than most of his fellows. There was no dross in the pure gold of his heart. He asked no security for his friendship and took no hostages of fortune. In fraternal circles he was a gem of purest ray serene. The vows of fidelity and love were not oaths of straw, of bonds of steel entwined with sweet blossoms of rosemary. He made his mother's house his sanctuary and their life was as that of sweethearts and comrades, as well as mother and son. To her comfort he gave all his years and strength and his devotion was a delicious oasis in the earthly desert of selfishness and greed.

Into the public service he carried the same conscientiousness and fidelity. As postmaster of Quincy by virtue of appointment by two presidents, he never forgot the general interest. His was a business administration and the humblest citizen was as sure of his attention and aid as the heir to a municipality. His day was blameless and his night was peace.

CAUGHT IN CUPID'S MESHES.

Crowley-Gateley

At 8:30 o'clock this morning, at St. Mary's church, occurred the marriage of Miss Helen Gateley of this city, to James Crowley of Madison. Rev. Father William A. Goebel spoke the words that made them husband and wife, after which a nuptial high mass was celebrated, for the first time since Father Goebel has been pastor of the church. The edifice was well filled with the many friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

After the ceremony was over a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the parents of the happy bride, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gateley, 1 Milton avenue. The bride needs no introduction to the people of Janesville, being a young lady well known here for her many admirable qualities. The groom is a man well thought of by all who know him. He was at one time in the insurance business here, but of late has made Madison his home. All join in wishing the couple much happiness.

Road-Dawies.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the parsonage of the Congregational church, occurred the marriage of Claude Rosa to Miss Laura N. Davies, both of whom reside in the town of Center. The only witnesses to the ceremony were the father, mother and brother of the bride. Rev. Robert O. Denison performed the ceremony, immediately after which the happy couple returned to the home of the groom.

Curious Japanese Customs.

The Japanese have a custom of celebrating the blossoming of the trees by a general holiday. This aesthetic people also regard the grouping of flowers as such a fine art that they frequently require their young women to take a two years' course simply in the arrangement of flowers. Both the Chinese and Japanese have a true idea of the value of each blossom, leaf and stem in the final effect. Each twig, each branch is given its place in the study; no blossom or leaf must be crowded; each, instead, must stand forth in its own beauty of form and color.

Riches and Climate of Siberia.

Siberia is not the land buried in snow and peopled with exiles only that it is imagined to be, even by many Russians. In its southern parts it is rich in natural productions as are the southern parts of Canada, and besides 500,000 of natives it has a population of more than 4,000,000 as thoroughly Russian as that to the north of Moscow.

STARTLING TURN IN CLEVELAND TROUBLE

AROSE OVER AN ORDER ISSUED BY COMPANY.

Demand Men to Pay More For Their Meal Tickets—Fifty Non-Union Employees Strike and Are Trying to Get Others Out—Walk Out Imminent at Chattanooga.

Cleveland, Aug. 3.—[Special]—The strike on the big consolidated street railway took a startling turn this morning.

Fifty non-union men who came here to take the places of the strikers, struck and are trying to get the other men out.

The trouble arose over an order issued by the company compelling the men to pay more for their meal tickets.

Chattanooga, Aug. 3.—[Special]—A strike is imminent on all the Chattanooga street car lines. All lines will probably be completely tied up.

The trouble was caused by an order prohibiting the employees from joining the union.

THREE NEW CASES IN PHOEBUS

Spread of the Scourge in the Soldiers' Home Is Checked.

Newport News, Va., Aug. 3.—The yellow fever reports from the soldiers' home at Hampton are more encouraging. An official statement given out by Gov. Woodfin of the home said there had been no new cases of fever and no more deaths at the home. The national officers who have managed the situation there are confident that they have the disease well in hand, and do not believe there will a spread of the fever. Every effort has been made to keep the disease out of Phoebus, and if the surgeons can keep it down to the three cases already reported they do not hesitate to say they anticipate no danger in either Hampton or Newport News.

An authoritative statement from Hampton says there are three suspected cases of the fever quarantined in Phoebus. Three houses are quarantined in consequence. The officials are satisfied that the cases are genuine, although an official report has not been sent to them.

Major Vickery, the physician in charge of the soldiers' home, who is co-operating with the marine hospital staff, says all the men stricken with the fever except two are doing well. These two are very low.

Robert F. Backford, who was appointed chief of the quarantine lines, called for 400 volunteers among the citizens to extend the picket line and to enable him to make the stations closer. Almost the entire number has volunteered, and the best citizens, merchants, professional men and men holding offices responded to the call and will shoulder shotguns and Winchester. It is as much as any man's life is worth to attempt to get through these lines to this city by land or water.

Cases Reported to Washington.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Advices received by the surgeon-general from Hampton show that the only change in the yellow-fever situation there is the addition of four suspected cases to those already in existence. Gov. P. T. Woodfin of the Soldiers' home wired that he was quite sure the pestilence would be stamped out. From Dr. White, who has general charge of affairs at Hampton, but who remains away from the institution, word came that the situation was unchanged.

Prisoners in the Dismal Swamp.

Grand Trunk Machinery Quit.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 3.—The machinists in the Grand Trunk shops here went on strike Wednesday. The action is the culmination of trouble which has been accumulating ever since J. C. Gehring, formerly a Wabash man, was installed as foreman. J. O'Connell, master mechanic of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers has been summoned from New York to adjust matters.

Jerry Simpson's Ambition.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 3.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson of the Seventh Kansas district announces to his intimate friends that he will be a candidate for United States senator, to succeed Lucien Baker.

BELOIT BOY IS HOME FROM PHILIPPINES

NIEL MANNING WAS IN SIXTEEN ENGAGEMENTS.

Participated in Much of the Hard Fighting But Was Not Injured Or Sick a Day—Receiving the Welcome of a True Soldier Hero.

Neil Manning, who has seen a year's campaign as a soldier in the Philippines, has returned to his home at Beloit and is receiving the welcome of a true soldier hero. The Daily Free Press of that city, speaks of his home coming as follows:

Neil Manning has been a member of the Third U. S. Artillery and has seen about as much fighting as has fallen to the lot of any American soldier in the present war against the insurgents of the Philippines. His discharge papers state that he participated in sixteen engagements and praises him for his service. But Mr. Manning does not pretend that he was much in the trouble.

He is Brave But Modest. When a reporter began to draw out his war experiences he remonstrated. "Please do not publish a lot of stuff about me to make me out a hero. I am not," he said. "I joined the army with a pretty good idea of what I was coming to and I made the most of the circumstances. I was not sick a day, was not hurt and if I do say it myself I did my full duty as best I knew how."

While wishing to concede to the young soldier's wishes The Free Press nevertheless puts him in the class of real war heroes, for Mr. Manning has the record to warrant it. Possibly he may not have done any singularly remarkable act as he says, but he went to the front, saw a year's hard service and returned with a "well done faithful servant" in his pocket. His arrival home is a surprise and his order for discharge was as much a surprise to him as was his presence in the city Saturday evening to his friends.

Gave Up Hopes of Discharge. He had given up all hopes of being discharged, when on the 17th of last June an order was placed in his hands directing that he and a few others report at once as a guard for a freight boat about to leave Manila, and also directing that on their arrival at San Francisco they be mustered out. This was joyful news to the soldier and the next day he was homeward bound, reaching Chicago Saturday, receiving his honorable discharge and arriving home Saturday night. Manning joined the army June 17, a year ago at Chicago, and was assigned to the Third Heavy Artillery, Battery G. He had previously planned to join Company E, First Wisconsin Volunteers, but he says somehow he got it in his head that the First would never leave the states, and as he wanted to go abroad he joined the regulars. The Third Artillery was very soon sent on to Manila, arriving there July 31, and went into an engagement almost as soon as landed, doing service as infantry. Manning took a part in the capture of the city of Manila, but says that was a fight of little consequence. He considers that the great battle was the general advance all along the line on March 25.

Mr. Manning's Close Call. While it is true that Manning escaped injury, he had one close call, a brass bullet cutting a cartridge in his belt half in two. That cartridge he prizes very highly.

In speaking of the manner in which the war was conducted Manning said that surely the government did the best it could to make the soldiers comfortable. "It's easy to talk about it, but another thing to get supplies to an army in the Philippines," he said. "My regiment was in General MacArthur's division and operated along the railroad. I suppose the papers let you know what was going on."

Speaking of the insurgents Manning says they are despised, not hated, as an enemy. Their officers are men who received their education in Europe and who hate Americans. They have made the poor "niggers" believe that Americans are a thousand times worse people than the Spaniards and so the natives fight heartily. They fought the Spaniards for liberty, they think they are fighting us for their lives.

Many Soldiers Die. Mr. Manning's battery left San Francisco with 200 men. When he left it there were but 85 men enrolled. To be sure some had been discharged, but death and disease claimed most of them, showing the hardship of the soldier life in the Philippines.

When asked if he had any disposition to live at the Philippines, Mr. Manning replied vigorously, "No sir, not I, if they gave me the whole group of Islands." He reports having had a letter from George Gregory, formerly of this city, a short time before he left Manila, but as he was forty miles away, he could not visit him.

A SUCCESSFUL ARTIST.

St. Louis Girl Who Has Won Praise From the Paris Critics.

Few American girls studying art in Paris have attained higher rank and distinction among the best artists and critics of the French capital than Miss Sadie Waters, though but little is known of her in this country. This is perhaps due to the fact that no exhibit of her work has ever been given here and also to her extreme modesty and lack of egotism. She has never courted fame. Her work, however, has found hosts of admirers wherever it has been shown.

Miss Waters is a native of St. Louis, her father the late William Waters, being one of the millionaire business men of that city. Charming in person and manner and inheriting abundant wealth, she might have become a leader of St. Louis' fashionable society, but she chose rather a career in art.

Early in her teens she began attending the St. Louis Art school, where her talent showed itself so unmistakably that her mother decided to take her to Paris. Mrs. Waters and her talented daughter went to Paris in 1889, and the latter at once became a pupil of Luc-Olivier Merson, an artist comparatively little known in this country, but of higher repute in France.

The proficiency of Miss Waters in her studies is shown in the fact that her work was exhibited in the salon within six months after she went to Paris. Her first exhibit was a portrait of Jane Heading in "L'Aventuriere," a miniature on ivory, showing a three-quarter figure robed in fluffy white against a white background. It attracted wide and favorable attention, and every one was amazed to learn that the artist was a young girl whose course of study embraced only a few months. Since then Miss Waters has produced many exquisite compositions on ivory, and is now ranked among the most proficient artists in that style of work.

Miss Waters' most important picture thus far—at least in her own estimation—is her "Vierge aux Lys" ("Virgin of the Lilies"), which was exhibited both at the salon and the Royal academy. It is wrought on ivory, 7 by 9 inches. The virgin is painted from one of her favorite models, a beautiful Italian woman.

Portraits on ivory of Sarah Bernhardt, owned in New York, and of Leon Labbe, the French surgeon, have added greatly to Miss Waters' reputation as a portrait painter.

The home of Mrs. and Miss Waters is the center of much of the artistic, musical and literary life of Paris, and they number among their friends many artists, musicians, writers and actors of prominence, who make Miss Waters' studio their salon.

Mrs. Waters was one of St. Louis' famous beauties in her youth, and is still handsome and stately, with a decidedly patrician air. She is very proud of her daughter's accomplishments, and justly so. Many of the mother's charms are duplicated in the daughter. She is tall and slender, of graceful carriage, and has an expressive and attractive face, wreathed in light brown hair. Her gowns, always designed by herself, are the delight of artists.

A branch of work to which Miss Waters has devoted much attention is that in which she has become proficient in that of illuminating. She is one of the very few women who have been successful in this class of work. The first important thing she did in the line of illuminating was a song, "My Love is Come," by Christina Rossetti. It was for Mrs. Raymond, who was formerly Annie Louise Cary. The music and words were done in pen and ink and the title page and borders illuminated.

Miss Waters has lately been engaged in illuminating a communion service, which she will present to the American church of the Holy Trinity in Paris as a memorial to her father. It is done on parchment nearly 400 years old, given her by a collector at Venice, who took it from an old, unfinished book. It will be bound in crimson velvet, with old silver clasps. Those who have seen the work declare it to be very beautiful.

Miss Waters' work brings high prices, her miniatures alone selling for $500 apiece, and from her art she has made a goodly sum of money, all of which she has devoted to charity, as the fortune of the family is abundant.

HOW TO SWIM.

Suggestions That Will Aid You In Acquiring the Art.

As an exercise swimming is regarded by experts in the care of body and mind as superior to any other pastime that has been devised for preservation of health and the uplifting of the nervous system. Warnings that it is the duty of every man, woman and child to learn to swim go unheeded, and so the newspapers will continue to record drowning accidents every day in which had the victim or the onlooker been true to himself there would have been nothing more serious to note than an unwelcome or unexpected bath, says the New York Herald, which gives the following suggestions about "how to swim."

To the person of average intelligence half a dozen lessons of from 15 to 20 minutes each are sufficient to master the art of swimming. The method of swimming most easily learned is what is known as the breast stroke. In this the swimmer lies flat in the water, with head and shoulders only above the surface. The forearms and hands are submerged about six inches, while the body and lower limbs are in a slanting position, somewhat farther from the surface.

Before making a stroke the limbs are extended to their full length. The first motion is the drawing of the arms backward in a semicircle a short distance under the top of the water. The palms should be kept open and downward, the entire arm moving backward with a slow "sweep." This not only serves to keep the head above the water line, but aids in propelling the body.

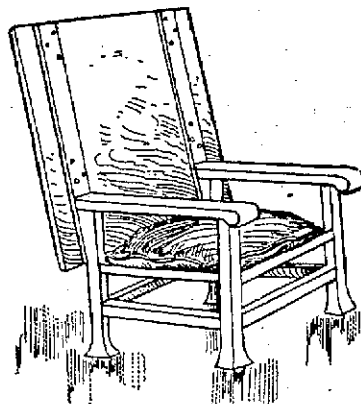

For propulsion, however, the lower limbs are depended upon in the greatest degree. As the arms move apart the legs are drawn up under the body, with the knees pointing outward at angles from the trunk. Progression is made by again extending the lower limbs until both of them come together, the backward sweep of the arms and the forcing of the feet against the water sending the body ahead in a degree corresponding to the energy of the arm and foot movement.

For beginners at the swimming game it is advisable to acquire the leg movement by holding fast with the hands to some stationary object before venturing to keep afloat. Care should be taken that the feet do not get above the surface when making the kick. This results in what is known as "the club foot" and causes a waste of energy as well as the making of an ungraceful swimmer.

After acquiring proficiency in the breast stroke the swimmer may devote attention to various other styles, all of which have virtues to commend them.

Veranda Furnishing.

The veranda furnishing that is shown in the illustration from The Ladies' World is a combination chair and table. As here shown, it is a very comfortable chair, with the back slightly inclined. This back is hinged to the rear end of the chair arms, the hinges being out of sight between the seat and the end of the arm. When the back is tipped forward upon the tops of the arms, the piece of furniture becomes a table, an article frequently very convenient upon a veranda. It is so plain in its construction that any one handy with tools should be able to make it, using any kind of wood that may be most conveniently procured. Use mortise and tenon joints, and pin each joint securely. When finished, oil thoroughly and rub the surface smartly with a wooden cloth.

To Remove Mildew Stains.

This is the season when mildew stains are most troublesome, but they can be easily conquered even during the murky midsummer days. To remove mildew from linen, mix together a tablespoonful of soft soap with enough powdered starch to make it rather thick, a teaspoonful of salt and the juice of a lemon. Apply to the stain with a paint brush on both sides of the linen, and leave the stained article out on the grass a day and a night, or until the spot is removed. Repeat the process if necessary, but one application will generally prove sufficient. After the stain has disappeared have the article thoroughly washed and dried.

Echoes of Fashions.

Lace is used unstintingly, especially for sleeves, and narrow flounces edged with lace are pushing themselves prominently to the fore.

Fichus there are innumerable, all eloquently expressive of the demand for something more than the merely smart, which we are pleased to term the picturesque.

Openwork collars and cuffs are being adapted to most of the fete toilets, and infinitely preferable will they prove in the hot weather to the tight high neckbands.

Fringe is here, there and everywhere, sometimes self colored, sometimes of a contrasting tone to the material.

THE BIG SLASH IN RATES EXPLAINED

WHY NORTHWESTERN MAKES SUCH LOW ONES.

The Popular Resort, Whitefish Bay is Not a Competitive Point.—Road Can Make Its Own Rate and Not Come in Contact With Inter-State Commerce Commission.

At the time of the Janesville grocery-men's picnic held at Whitefish Bay, the question was asked: "How can the Northwestern road make a round trip rate of $1.25 without coming in contact with the Inter-State Commerce Commission?"

The question is answered by the Milwaukee Sentinel as follows:

"A great deal of comment has been occasioned this summer by the fact that the Chicago & Northwestern railroad has had nearly all the big excursions to Milwaukee, and that the other railroads have had practically none. Never before have so many excursionists been brought through here to Whitefish Bay in any summer as the present one, and while the attractiveness of Whitefish Bay was conceded, it was not thought it alone could be the sole cause for the numerous visits. And it was not. The excursions have been so numerous and successful because of the extraordinarily low rates granted by the Northwestern road. Rates never before heard of have been made by the Northwestern road from points far away in Illinois and Wisconsin to Whitefish Bay. It is said at the office of the Northwestern road that the rate granted for the Elgin, Ill., excursion to Whitefish Bay was $1.50 for the round trip. The regular one way fare from Elgin to Milwaukee is $3.50. Rates in the same proportion have been made from other points."

"Ordinarily the Northwestern road would be the subject of a 'calling down' by the Interstate Commerce commission for cutting rates in this fashion; but in this case it has not been. The secret of the situation is that Whitefish Bay, unlike Milwaukee, is not what is known in railroad circles as a 'competing point,' and therefore the railroad can make any rate to Whitefish Bay it chooses. To Milwaukee the rates would have to conform to certain figures, as Milwaukee, having several other roads entering into it, is a competitive point. The passengers brought to Whitefish Bay on the Northwestern road excursions are making a trip to that place, though no one can prevent them from getting off at intermediate stations if they insist on doing so."

DIRT, GRAVEL AND MACADAM

Object Lesson in Road Building At Coming State Fair.

Funds are being raised at Milwaukee for building object lesson roads at the coming state fair. Road Expert Harrison of the Department of Agriculture, is to build samples of dirt, gravel and macadam roads, so that delegates to the road convention may see the work in progress. These roads might be left permanently, and would be an interesting state fair exhibit.

NEW SHIRT WAISTS.

Novel Variation of This Garment to Which Women Cling.

Never in my recollection has there been a fashion so long in vogue as that of the shirt waist. And it shows no signs yet of failing to keep its place. Young and old, rich and poor, wear shirt waists, and wear them at all times and in all places.

Simply the changing of cotton ones for silk makes them fit for any but the dressiest occasions. Shirt waists even do not seem to be out of place in the summer in church, though they naturally are of modest color, most often of black pongee or taffeta.

The shape and make vary as much as ever. There are so many different ideas that one's hair would turn gray from old age ere the half could be told. But I noticed a few the other day, and these have the merit of novelty.

One new design has the waist laid in round box plaits to the yoke. This style is prettiest in chambray, linen, pique or dimity in solid color and is made to wear with white cuffs and collar and a leather belt. The yoke is cut to fit the shoulders, and there is a high self collar, over which the white one is to be worn, turned down. The yoke is pointed in the back, and the box plaits are laid in the same way.

A black and white striped cotton crepon had plain inch wide plaits laid down the front. The whole was bloused with a short yoke in the back. The collar and cuffs were of the same. There were a cardinal satin tie at the neck and a heavy cardinal belt with Roman gold buckle. The cuffs were shirt sleeve shape, but with short turned up cuffs of the same at the edge. The simplicity of this made its superior style.

A black blouse waist was also called a shirt waist. It was of very dark gray and simply gathered in at the waist. A yoke and caps to the sleeves were made of Bulgarian embroidery in dark red, blue and cream, the work done directly on the material. The only way this can be done is to have a piece of canvas with loose mesh basted over the material. The cross stitch work is then done through both materials, the stitches not drawn very tight. When the pattern is wrought, the linen canvas threads are pulled out, and that leaves the work on the material in high relief. It is quite effective and has an oriental air very pleasing.

Where one wants a washable waist which shall also be dressy and elaborate, one of the line gray and white and pink striped zephyrs is just right. The sleeves have turned up cuffs, and the collar is high and has one portion turned over. Down the front are three flat plaits, between which are two insets made of tucks and fine torchon lace, set on horizontally. This, however, elaborate it looks, is to be ironed flat and the lace picked up afterward.

White linen of rather heavy quality was used to make another. This had a stitched plait down the center, with several narrow tucks on each side, leaving spaces, filled in with diagonal tucks, with insertions made of Deimel linen mesh. The effect is very fine, and it shows its value. A high collar with black or red tie belongs with it.

Another mannish shirt waist is of blue and gray mudras, the stripes running crosswise. It is laid in folds from top to bottom. A collar and cuffs of the same add to its masculine appearance.

Aside from these new ideas, there are many dainty, crisp waists of white, blue, pink, cream, pink and yellow taffeta, all as crisp as piecrust. These cost ready made all the way from $5 to $60, according to the manner of making and trimming. Some of them have the whole front covered with narrow ruffles of fine ribbon. Others have lace.

Many of the fine waists are made with the queerest shoulders. Where the sleeve is set in the shoulder slopes down almost to the armpit. Some of them are cut so that the fronts, back and upper part of the sleeve are all on one piece with no shoulder seam at all. This style cannot be cut in anything but firm and yet flexible wool, all in one color, and without up or down, like cashmere.

PAVING QUESTION IS GIVEN A REST

REFERRED BACK TO COMMITTEE UNTIL MONDAY.

Attorney George G. Sutherland Reads Report of Property Owners—City Attorney Instructed to Appeal to the Supreme Court in Three Damage Cases.

An adjourned meeting of the common council was held last evening to consider the matter of paving West Milwaukee street.

The chairman of the judiciary committee reported that the bond of George H. Erredge as constable of the First ward had been examined, found in due form and the sureties good. On motion it was received, accepted and placed on file.

The report of the street assessment committee with regard to paving West Milwaukee street was read. The committee, according to said report, was in session on the 22 day of July to hear objections. It further shows that W. H. Tallman was the only person to appear and make objections. Mr. Tallman's objection was "that said street is now paved and that property along the line of said improvement is not benefited by reason of its being repaved and that the present pavement in front of the property in which he is interested will last for a number of years and for the further reason that said property has been assessed for the purpose of laying a pavement three different times; and that he thought that if the street was to be again repaved that the expense of the same should be paid by the city and not the property owners, but that he would be willing to pay for one-third of the cost of said improvement, providing the remaining two-thirds was paid by the city."

Outsiders were afforded an opportunity to be heard on the subject and were requested by Mayor Richardson on behalf of the highway committee that if any remarks be made that they be heard before the report was referred.

Attorney George Sutherland informed the council that he had been requested by the interested property holders to present a petition, which he would do, were it in order. Mr. Sutherland then read the petition, which was as follows:

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Janesville: Gentlemen—Two meetings of the owners of property abutting on West Milwaukee street, in the city of Janesville, have been held, which were attended by all of said property owners, with two or three exceptions. At these meetings were considered the kind of material with which West Milwaukee street should be paved and the manner, in which the same should be paid for. After a prolonged and careful consideration of these questions, it was the unanimous opinion of those who attended said meetings that a properly constructed macadam pavement would be preferable for said street to a brick pavement, on the ground both of economy and durability. It was also unanimously agreed at said meetings that in view of the fact that this is the fourth time the property owners on West Milwaukee street have been called upon to pay for paving that street, that at least one-half of the expense of paving should be paid by the city at large, the other half to be paid by the abutting property owners. And your honorable body is hereby respectfully petitioned to change the plans and specifications for laying a brick pavement on said street and provide plans and specifications for laying a macadam pavement in accordance with the unanimous request of said abutting property owners, and also to provide for the payment of one-half of the expense of the same by general tax on the city at large, and one-half by the abutting property owners. The petitioners were duly appointed a committee to present these requests to your honorable body. And your committee presents these requests with less reluctance because in an elaborate address made by your mayor in this city on the 1st day of March last, he advocated the building of a brick pavement with concrete foundation from Academy street to the bridge at a cost of twelve thousand dollars, and that the city could pay for this as the property owners have paid for laying three pavements."

It is our belief that this sentiment, so well and forcibly expressed, is as true now as it was four months ago; and that now to compel the property owners to pay the whole cost for this work is entirely unjust. The owners of property on Milwaukee street also feel as the city has a new stone quarry, new crusher and has abundant supplies of large gravel which can be crushed for a top dressing, that the macadam pavement is the one which could be adopted.

We respectfully request your honorable body to revise its decision in this matter to the end that the property owners on West Milwaukee street who have already borne more than a fair share of the public taxes, be relieved of the threatened burden.

GEORGE G. SUTHERLAND,
STANLEY B. SMITH,
W. H. TALLMAN.

The reading of the petition was followed by a few remarks by Mr. Sutherland. He stated that it was the opinion of the property owners that the macadam pavement, with large stone at the bottom and small at the top with bened gravel dressing well rolled did make the best road.

There being a silence the report of the street assessment committee was referred to a recess taken.

On motion of Ald. Carpenter, of the judiciary committee, the city attorney instructed to appeal to the supreme court in the cases of Alfred P. Sellick vs. City of Janesville; Mary Gagan vs. City of Janesville; Ann Collins vs. City of Janesville.

Ald. Rice moved that the committee be granted further time to report on the matter of repaving.

Ald. Carpenter asked if that motion was to jeopardize proceedings to repair the street.

The city attorney said the council could act at a regular or adjourned meeting, but that some special time should be set so that the city clerk could give the proper notice.

The city attorney said the council could act at a regular or adjourned meeting, but that some special time should be set so that the city clerk could give the proper notice.

Alderman Gilkey introduced a petition signed by property owners on Division street, asking that the street be improved from the southerly side of South Third street to the northerly side of Oakland avenue, in the Third ward, by grading and the laying of gutters at the expense of the real estate to be benefited, and that the grade of the street be established. Petition was referred to the aldermen of the ward.

An order introduced by Ald. Rice was adopted, directing the city engineer to prepare and file in the office of the city clerk plans and specifications showing location, size, kind and quality of material for the construction of water and gas service pipes to be laid from the water and gas mains in West Milwaukee street, to the curb line of lots or parts of lots fronting that part of said street, between the westerly end of Milwaukee street bridge to the easterly side of High street.

CITY SHOULD TAKE WISCONSIN'S MOTTO

"FORWARD" IS A GOOD WATCH-WORD TO ADOPT.

"Citizen" Argues For a Brick Pavement, and Says That There Should Be a Conduit Built Under It—Janesville Would Look Well in the Lead of Other Towns.

Editor Gazette.—In recent years Wisconsin with her unique motto "Forward!" has been taking the wind out of the sails of the old "Pine-Tree" state as a (Deirgo) leader. Wisconsin through an idea originating in the mind of an old Minniette, and the push of another son of Main who happened to be our state senator from Janesville formulated and enacted into a statute law the first school-house-flag-law. This enactment grew out of the bible being legislated out of our public schools.

That movement became a deirgo—an example which nearly all the states have followed.

Janesville has for many years been a model as a municipal city in her inexpensive police department, and at the same time for having the least possible disturbances. With such examples as these and many others which might be cited to prove to the world that the people of Wisconsin came as near to keeping pace of her motto "Forward!" why not Janesville, now she has such a grand opportunity to take another step forward and show the other cities how to make a street so permanent that never again will any repairs be needed save once in about fifteen years to replace the pavement?

Letters Discussed

The two very timely letters from F. S. E. and W. P. R. published in The Gazette last evening have set molecules of thought in motion upon the pavement problem. F. S. E. in his letter shows how feasible it is to make a street of broken stone, and shows that the property owners want to do the best possible thing for themselves and the public.

W. P. R. in his letter gives an example of proving the pudding by "chewing the bag string." Some other person might have told an experience of the durability of brick pavement by citing Galesburg, Ill., or Lincoln, Nebraska, where nearly all the principal streets have worn a brick pavement for many years. The objection of constant breaking up the street pavement for repairs of sewers, water-mains, etc., with any kind of pavement is of the utmost importance to be considered.

The Best is the Cheapest.

Now for that example step, Forward! If it must needs be that the sewers, water-mains, gas and electric light plants have a right of way in business streets, (they ought to be placed in alleys when practical) then the best and cheapest construction of such a street prepared for public travel, is to construct a conduit of sufficient size to carry all the lines of city appliances. The conduit should be constructed so as to have ample room for the sewer at the bottom located upon one side and provided with tile drainage beneath it sufficient to carry away any moisture arising in the form of hidden springs or seepage. Along the other side of the conduit at the bottom should be a place for the water mains; also toilet, and above these should be ample room for the electric and gas light mains, with ample room for workmen to do repairs. The whole conduit to be lighted by electricity, and well ventilated, so that in case repairs are needed, every one of the plants can be reached without any surface disturbance. With such an improved method the cost of repairs would be lessened by at least fifty per cent., for the primary plumbing would be so thoroughly done that the repairs would be rare indeed, and when required the workmen could get at it so easily and quickly that the cost would be reduced to a minimum.

Corporations Should Pay.

If a municipality is to continue the plan of giving franchises to private corporations, those corporations should be made to pay their proportionate part of the cost of such a conduit, and in the opinion of the writer the city should pay their proportionate part of the cost, and upon any street where a franchise has been granted to construct and operate a street railway, that corporation should be required to pay their proportionate part of that expense. Since we now have improvements in having an endless rail, or a permanent railjoint, the street car corporation should be required to construct their road-bed so the rails will be on a level with the top of the pavement, then forever afterward the annoyance of the traveling public, and the adjoining property holders will be reduced to a minimum. The value of property adjacent to such an improved street will be so much enhanced that the owners of such properties will willingly contribute their tax to carry out such an undertaking.

The experiment could be made by constructing a short section, say from the river to Jackson street on West Milwaukee street.

"Forward!" is into Janesville's chiefest square. Observe her conduit set midway there; Then I list to jest, laughter and melodious song Spontaneous from people gliding along O'er the finest pavement in the world.

Be strong in faith, for now the time is nigh When Janesville's example will be followed by Many cities of the earth.

"FORWARD!"

JOINT PICNIC WAS GREATLY ENJOYED

U. W. AND FRIENDS AT CRYSTAL SPRINGS.

A Big Success Notwithstanding the Threatening Weather—The Steamer Plied the River at Frequent Intervals With Crowds—Imperial Band Furnished Music—Dance Tonight.

Today is the date of the big joint picnic of the Degree of Honor Lodge No. 2 and Olive Branch Lodge No. 33, A. O. U. W. at Crystal Springs park, and considering the threatening weather was a big success.

The boats took the first of the picnickers to the park at 9:30 o'clock and have been making regular trips during the day, well loaded down with the pleasure seekers. The most of them were provided with well filled lunch baskets which will guarantee all against hunger. A number went up in carriages, while a few of the most venturesome braved the muddy roads and the prospect of more showers and made the trip on bicycles.

It is an open secret amongst the most of us that it rained pretty hard this morning but it came so early and freshened up the air so nicely that it did not deter many from going up in the first boat in order to enjoy the whole day. The bulk of the crowd, however, waited until the sun came out and dried things up and then took the afternoon boats which ran at intervals of one hour.

The Imperial band was engaged to furnish the music and after several well rendered selections about the business streets, left for the park on the Columbia at 2 o'clock.

The contestants in the bicycle race were started a little later than the scheduled time in order to allow the roads to dry up as much as possible. The starters were William Lighthizer, Joe Casey and John Kelly and they left the corners of Main and Milwaukee streets at 2:15 p. m.

Lighthizer won the race in twenty minutes with Casey, second. Kelly got stalled in the mud and did not finish.

Speeches were made during the afternoon by Mayor V. P. Richardson and Grand Master Workman J. M. Thayer, of this city, and W. A. Walker, of Milwaukee. There were games and contests galore for which liberal prizes had been donated. There was a tug of war between two picked teams and all kinds of the races usually indulged in at a picnic.

This evening the affair will wind up with a dance and cake walk in the pavilion and a mammoth cake will be awarded the winners of the latter event. Dancing will commence at 6:20. All are invited.

WHERE DREYFUS WILL BE TRIED.

Descriptions of His Prison, the Courthouse and Other Places of Interest in Rennes.

BY HOWARD SPENCE SINCLAIR.

The most important town in all Europe just now is Rennes, the quaint old Breton capital, where will presently be enacted the climax to France's great tragic drama. Dreyfus, the martyr of Devil's Island, is there. So is Mme. Dreyfus. So are a host of other folks—government officials, great lawyers, swarms of detectives, army men and newspaper correspondents.

The center of interest, of course, is the military prison. It is a solid old stone structure. From without it looks very comfortable in spite of the heavy iron bars at the windows. Never before in its history has it held such an

MILITARY PRISON AT RENNES.

Important prisoner. In fact, its cells have been but little used, an occasional unruly soldier or indiscreet officer making up its list of occupants.

It is surrounded by a heavy stone wall, as are many of the old mansions in the town. The only difference between the prison wall and those of the grand residences is that the former is topped with an iron fence and has little watchtowers at the corners. The window of the cell which Captain Dreyfus occupies is wholly inaccessible from without. It overlooks a sort of courtyard, part of which is paved with brick, the rest being beautified with flowers, palms and shrubs.

Next to the prison, both in interest and location, is the military court where the second court martial will take place. There is a communicating passage between the two buildings, so that Dreyfus will not be exposed to the gaze of the crowds when he finally goes to face his accusers.

Many court martials have been held there in years past and many officers of artillery have answered charges at that bar, but no trial has ever been held which has attracted the attention of more than a handful of army men.

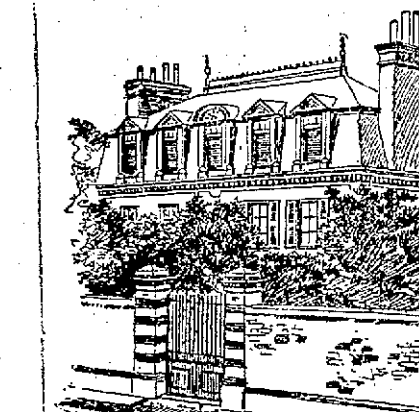

How different this one! The people of two continents, many millions of people of other races than the one to which the prisoner belongs, listen eagerly for the story of his attempt to get tardy justice from a prejudiced nation.

The courtroom has always been found ample before, but now the foreign and native press correspondents are beginning to wonder how they will all crowd into it with the judges, counsel, witnesses and court officers.

Another place of interest is the house in which Mme. Dreyfus is staying. It is the home of Mme. Godard, a plucky, wealthy little old French woman who has brought down on herself the active hatred of the great majority of her townspeople because she has opened her home to the afflicted woman who has suffered so much and so long.

Up to within a few weeks ago very few people outside of Rennes had ever heard of Mme. Godard. Now her name is hissed on the Paris boulevards and applauded in England and America.

Her husband is dead, but before he died they had made an ample fortune together from the sale of all kinds of wood, from firewood growing in the forests around Rennes to strange spicewood and dyewood from Asia and Africa. They really carried on a kind of business entirely original with themselves, and though they made a fortune out of it, it seems that now, when one of them is dead and the other retired, the business dies with them. Nobody has enterprise enough in Rennes to carry it on or to establish in Paris and become richer still than funny little old Mme. Godard.

HOUSE OF MME. GODARD, RENNES.

[Where Mme. Dreyfus is staying.]

She has been outrageously treated by the Paris correspondents and bars them from her house, but the American and English correspondents she treats differently. In a recent interview she told why she offered an asylum to Mme. Dreyfus.

"This is how it all started: Mme. Dreyfus sent her agent to Rennes to prepare a suitable place near the prison, in which she should live during her husband's trial. To her surprise the agent returned in a few days to say that he could not rent a house for her in all Rennes, and that not a single hotel would take her in.

"Think of it! Now, I am not a 'Dreyfusard,' as the Paris papers say, at all. I don't want to know anything about the case except this much: Mme. Dreyfus has won my admiration by what I know of her attitude during all this terrible trouble that has come upon her and her family, and as soon as I read that her agent had failed here I sat down and wrote her a frank little note, putting my house at her disposal.

"I did not then know what beasts were among my fellow townspeople, and I was glad when I received a graceful acceptance from Mme. Dreyfus. I do not know her; I have never seen her, and I stated that I would leave the house the day before she arrived, so as to leave her in the greatest privacy. But this she wrote to say she should not allow. Then began my troubles. I have been sometimes awakened in the dead of night by people shouting out against me beneath my very windows. And why? Because I had been moved to compassion by the unheard-of injustice done to a good woman.

"If she could find neither lodging nor bread and wine elsewhere in Rennes, she could at least get both at my house, and not because I hold any definite opinion as to her husband's guilt or innocence, but because she deserves the respect of every human being.

"I am now almost afraid that Mme. Dreyfus will refuse the hospitality I have been so glad to be able to offer her. She has certainly heard of the persecution to which I am now being subjected and will fear to cause my ruin by coming here. But my blood is up," concluded the stalwart old lady, with flaming eyes. "They shall not frighten me or turn me out of the path I have entered. I defy them!"

And defy them, she has most effectively, for Mme. Dreyfus has lived under her roof in safety for some little time. It is expected that she will continue to stay as the guest of the courageous little widow until the end of the trial.

The aristocratic old citizens of Rennes were somewhat disturbed at first by the sudden influx of strangers, but they have become highly satisfied with the present state of affairs. The strangers have brought with them much money, and 20 franc pieces have never been changed so frequently in all the history of the old town as now.

Rennes is busy gathering in the franc pieces and the bank notes. The cafes find themselves forced to stretch themselves gradually out into the street to the very border of the river; the theaters have two performances a day, and even then cannot offer room to all who want to come. Bands play on every street corner, and the long disused fountains in front of the superb old Mairie are set hurling their snowy tongues toward the sky. The two lazy music halls are inundated; the hotels bust with guests; the force at the telegraph office has been quadrupled.

And all this because the court of cassation chose Rennes as the place where Dreyfus should be brought a second time before his judges. The longer the trial is delayed the larger the harvest of money; every day must mean thousands of dollars for those of the population who are engaged in catering to the newcomers.

The Bitter Part of It.

Some philosopher says: "The contented man is never poor; the discontented never rich."

That may be all right as far as the man himself is concerned, but it's discouraging to be a member of a contented poor man's family.—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE SUMMER GIRL'S FRILLS.

Popular Things in Parasols, Veils, Gloves, Belts, Ties, Etc.

Narrow strips of black velvet extending from the stick to the end of the parasol give a sun ray effect which is much desired, and when closed the parasol appears to be striped. Lilac flowers are brocaded on light blue grounds, and many silk parasols are veiled with gauze and gossamer materials, held down by incrustations of lace outlined with frillings of infinitesimal ribbons. A chion of ribbon or chiffon is indispensable on the handle.

Embroideries are perhaps to be accepted as a leading decorative detail of parasols, carried out in silks and wondrous drawn ribbon work. Pale pink peon de sole, stitched over with trails of tiny pink flowers and banded thrice about with narrow black bebe ribbon, is a pretty instance of this.

An odd thing in shapes takes a pagoda form, every alternate spoke in the wire descending deeper than its fellows.

Very chic summer sunshades boast a covering of lace cream, white or black, and here an immense variety of striking contrasts is conducted with consummate taste; also are there some covers of embroidered grass lawn.

A great predilection is shown for black and white parasols. Black silk ones are striped with white, and dainty white tulle is striped perpendicularly with black velvet. Essentially for the matron comes a parasol of black moire, applique with tinted butterflies and hemmed up on the outside with a deep lace border to correspond.

The tale of handles—natural wood, crystal and pearl overlaid with silver and silver or gold jeweled with turquoise, amethyst, etc.—would be too long to tell. White or colored chiffon linings elaborately gathered and pushed with a bow to match tied upon the handle distinguish the latest and smartest examples of the season's parasols. The novelty of the season has five gores in place of the usual eight and a very long handle.

Four button gloves of finest, softest French kid are popular in white, lavender and mastic shades, with block or self stitchings and pearl stud buttons.

The poor neglected bonnet is coming to the fore, to be sure, but still a bonnet, with strings, jet sequins and stiffened leaflets to resemble feathers mingled with osprey in the front. A light blue French straw has a wealth of roses at the side. Veils are almost as important as the hats, and fashion tends to fine spider net in black and white veiling.

Stylish stocks for silk or muslin waists are of taffeta, the ends cut pointed and stitched, and these may be either long or short. The narrow string tie for general wear hardly needs mention. Two pretty ties are the "princess," a medium sized bow with long, broad ends reaching to the waist, and the "once over" Ascot, which is very swell.

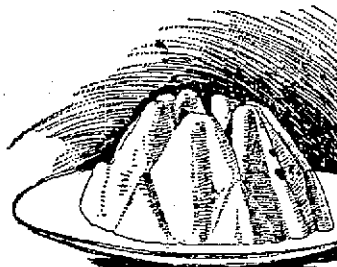

The serviceable and fashionable belt for general wear is of leather, narrow, and with harness buckle. The dressier style consists of a six inch ribbon and narrow clasps, which include many metals and gems galore.

A Hot Weather Soup.

There is nothing nicer in hot weather in the way of soup than a clear clam bouillon, says Table Talk. Scrub well 50 hard shelled clams and rinse to remove all sand and dirt. Place in a kettle with one and a half cups of boiling water, cover closely and keep near the front of the fire until the shells open. Strain the liquor through doubled cheese cloth, add sufficient boiling water to reduce the saltiness of the broth, season with white pepper and serve with tiny oyster crackers. If fresh clams cannot be had, the canned bouillon may be used.

A Delicious Summer Dessert.

Pineapple sponge, as illustrated and described by the Boston Cooking School Magazine, furnishes a very tempting dessert. Summer together one cup and a half of grated pineapple, three-fourths of a cup of sugar and half a cup of water 15 minutes. Add one-fourth of a package of gelatine soaked in one-fourth of a cup of cold water and strain through a cheese cloth, pressing the juice from the pulp. Set in a dish of ice water and stir constantly until it begins to set. Now add the juice of half a lemon and the beaten whites of two eggs, and beat until very stiff. Then turn into mold and set aside in a cool place. Serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavored, or with a boiled custard.

"For a refreshing 'reviver' at home, drug store, club or bar; stir one Orangeine Powder into a glass of carbonated water. Drink Foaming."

NO HUMBUG HERE.

Janesville Endorsement Is What Counts With the Janesville Public.

You can't fool the public all the time. They will find you out at last. Every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Many the remedy that makes the skeptic.

It fails to keep its promises. Doan's Kidney Pills bring renewed reward. They cure the skeptic. Plenty of proof of this at home. Janesville pros for Janesville people. Our citizens say they cure backache. Cure urinary disorders. Cure sick kidneys. Experience has taught them this is so.

Conviction for every sufferer. In the testimony of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mr. A. F. Lee, of 51 Sharon St., carpenter, says:

"I can most strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney complaint. I think mine was contracted in the army where I served in Co. D and Wis. Inf. For the last twenty years it troubled me a great deal, many days I could hardly keep at my work, and by rights should have laid at home and doctored. It was seldom that my back did not ache, and I have been completely laid up for three or four days at a stretch. When stooping or lifting sharp twinges penetrated the kidneys, the secretion from these organs were too frequent, and accompanied by pain. I used all kinds of remedies but none gave permanent relief. Obtaining Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. I took them, and after the first three or four doses a noticeable change was brought about. I improved steadily from then on and on completing the treatment I was in good condition and am now well. I do not feel anything of the trouble now and consequently take pleasure in recommending the remedy which did so much for me."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.
